

ADR Driver Training

ADR is the carriage of dangerous goods by road within Europe and anyone wanting to do so is required by law to obtain a Vocational Training Certificate administered by the Scottish Qualifications Authority. The qualification lasts for 5 years and must then be renewed by refresher training no later than 4 weeks before the expiry date.

The ADR driver course is based around a series of modules:

Core - this gives a basic overview of dangerous goods - what they are, loading & unloading, security of loads, how they can react etc. Other topics covered include BASIC first aid, fire fighting and emergency procedures.

Tanks - covers the carriage of dangerous goods in road tanks and tank containers.

Packages - covers the carriage of dangerous goods in packages (apart from explosives or radioactives).

Classes - covering the seven main UN danger classes - Class 2 (Gases), Class 3 (Flammable liquids), Class 4 (Flammable solids), Class 5 (Oxidising), Class 6 (Toxics), Class 8 (Corrosives) & Class 9 (Miscellaneous)

Radioactives (Class 7), Explosives (Class 1) and Hazardous Goods Awareness are all 1 day courses and details are available on request.

Monthly Courses: Initial (Full) ADR qualification,

5 days covering :- Core-Tanks-Packages-Classes 2,3,4,5,6,8,9

Refresher qualification,

3 days covering :- Core-Tanks-Packages-Class's 2,3,4,5,6,8,9

We are always happy to accept candidates who only want to sit specific classes and will arrange a timetable to suit those requirements.

ADR AND DRIVER CPC: 21 hours towards your 35 hours of periodic training can be gained by sitting on an initial ADR course (covering the carriage of dangerous goods).

If you are interested in booking onto one of these courses, click here:

www.Transafetraining.co.uk/Public/Contact/Contact.aspx